

Haven Sent!

So what does an in-demand ordained minister turned astrologer turned feng shui master do when she needs to manage her massive following? Release a hot new DVD, of course!

With a jam-packed schedule of feng shui consultations, astrological chart readings, speaking engagements and, uh, marriage ceremonies to conduct, Alice Inoue is beyond busy. (Last we checked, the waiting list to consult with her was six months long!) Regardless, the supernova and self-professed “life guide” takes time to meditate every day and has managed to produce two books and three DVDs. The most recent instructional video, Feng Shui Illuminated: Hot Topics & FAQs, was just released in February. “In feng shui, we create a room that will push your buttons in a positive way,” says Inoue. “When we do feng shui, we raise the tune.” Take a look at her top tips to keep you singing on a higher note. aliceinoue.com

- Minimize clutter.
- Have only things you absolutely love around you.
- Camouflage the view of electrical cords.
- Use plants to add life force.
- Choose furniture without sharp corners whenever possible.

STAR GAZER: Astrologer/feng shui expert/ordained minister Alice Inoue believes in the bigger picture.

The In Crowd

INTO Setting foot in this tiny downtown décor boutique is like being transported to a wonderland of design delights. Capiz shell chandeliers and lamps created by Hawai'i sculptor Mark Chai hold court alongside modern acrylic lamps by Allan Knight. On any given day, a stream of interior designers files in to pore over the collection of curiosities and top-of-the-line home accessories assembled by owner Alan Carrell. 536.2211, intohonolulu.com

INSIDE TIP: Interior designers flock to Into for its diverse range of accents.

EXHIBITIONISTS!

You won't find fish or cake, but at Fishcake you will find eclectic designer furniture and unique home accessories from around the world. Behind the industrial garage door entrance, the sprawling Honolulu showroom also regularly exhibits local artists. Paintings, photographs and sculptures—even textiles—are organically woven into the furniture displays, creating the I-want-my-home-to-look-like-that reaction that seals the deal for buyers every time. 593.1231